

Abstract

The invention concerns a container, in particular a bag, for packaging bulk material such as cement, comprising at least one gas-permeable and moisture-repellent container wall 1 which essentially forms the container and which has a carrier layer 2 and a plastic layer 3 which is not closed.

(Figure 2)